Agency Executive Development Program and the Chartered Insurance Agency Executive (CIAE) Designation

The executives who successfully complete the Agency Executive Development Program earn the prestigious CIAE designation.

LIMRA created the CIAE designation to provide a track for professional development, benchmark excellence, and recognize agency executives who make a personal commitment to their careers.

Participants in the Agency Executive Development Program gain:

- New skills to engineer improved and sustainable performance
- Practical and effective management tools
- Broader and deeper leadership capabilities

Target Audience:

- New agency executives who want to develop the skills and tools needed to manage their people and their agencies to success
- Rising executives who want to gain management skills for leading their teams from simple coordination to high-functioning collaboration
- Chief agency officers' direct reports who want to develop executive leadership skills to plan beyond sales development and build for the future
- Leaders who want to acquire the prestigious CIAE designation as a mark of their professionalism, competence, and modern leadership in today's insurance marketplace

Requirements:

- As your agency executives take on increasing responsibilities, progressing to the senior-executive level and then the director level, they must complete the following three courses and submit a final paper/thesis:
  - Regional Officers School (ROS) (four and a half days)
  - Effective Management Skills (EMS) (two days)
  - Strategic Leadership (SL) (two days)

With its rigorous, field-tested, best-practice executive-development content and methodologies, the CIAE designation is recognized worldwide as a mark of professional excellence in our industry.

The Agency Executive Development Program is part of LIMRA's Talent Solutions International and provides a breadth of training that meets the specific, varied, and progressively complex needs of the many people who execute management tasks. It ensures that managers and executives master the appropriate skills for their roles.

Each program reinforces learning and helps participants take immediate action to improve results with these tools and more:

- Pre-program analyses
- Planning frameworks
- Group projects
- Case study analysis and solutions

All training concludes by integrating content, participants' cases, and corporate objectives to create individual action plans for immediate implementation.

The executives who successfully complete all three workshops (ROS, EMS, and SL) and a final paper/thesis earn the CIAE designation, a diploma suitable for framing, a pin signifying the achievement, and an electronic copy of the CIAE logo to add to business cards.

CIAEs are also entitled to display the designation letters in all communications, including social media, emails, business cards, and stationery.

Curriculum Overview

Regional Officers School (ROS)

(Four and a half days)

New agency executives develop the skills and tools they need to:

- Lead their agency managers
- Manage operations
- Conduct effective field office visits
- Identify agency manager development needs

Effective Management Skills (EMS)

(Two days)

Your rising executives gain management skills for leading their teams from simple coordination to high-functioning collaboration. Participants learn how to deliver results by:

- Understanding others' work styles
- Enhancing team effectiveness
- Creating shared commitment
- Directing goal achievement

Strategic Leadership (SL)

(Two days)

Your direct reports develop executive leadership skills to plan beyond sales development and build for the future:

- Develop, implement, and manage strategic plans for their territories
- Plan for immediate opportunities and long-range growth
- Conduct a market and business analysis, including evaluating territory potential and resources, and analyzing competitors and their positioning
