

How the AML Training Program Works

1 Your company sends a data file to LIMRA with the name and appropriate identification information of each trainee (producers and/or home/head office employees).

2 LIMRA creates a training program login name and password for each trainee.

3 Your company communicates information to your trainees about the program and how to link to it. Your company can place a link to the secure AML Training site on its intranet or email the link to each trainee.

4 Trainees log in to complete the AML Training Program. They must access every web page and answer quiz questions to complete it. Trainees can leave and re-enter the site at any time during training. They may also log back in at any time after completion to reference the training materials.

5 LIMRA provides reports listing who has completed training and who has not.
