The LIMRA EY Experienced Advisor Study Key metrics of advisor practices

About the study

Many forces are impacting advisor practices. These forces are causing advisors to step back and re-evaluate their business models and the value proposition they provide to clients. This joint research study explores the profiles of today's financial professionals across seven practice models, the drivers of productivity, and the services and support they demand from their organizational partners.

Findings will help organizations effectively align their service models to engage with desired advisor segments.

Nearly 1,500 financial professionals participated in the study who:

- Work as insurance or investment professionals in a sales or advisory capacity
- Have three or more years of industry sales experience
- Meet minimum gross income thresholds for their respective practice model
